

PRISONERS' ADVICE SERVICE

LOCUM WOMEN PRISONERS' CASEWORKER SALARY – NJC SCALE 32

The Prisoners' Advice Service is a unique London-based charity, set up sixteen years ago by leading prison reform and civil liberties organisations to provide free legal advice and representation to prisoners in England and Wales. It has a reputation among prisoners and their legal advisers for high quality legal advice and excellent casework.

The PAS is looking for a locum legal caseworker/solicitor with experience of casework and advice work with the ability to handle a substantial and varied caseload. The post has been developed so it now carries special responsibility for providing assistance to female prisoners. Candidates must be committed to prisoners' rights and have knowledge of the main issues affecting those in prison, particularly female prisoners. Experience of judicial review and legal aid is essential. This is a 9 to 12-month contract to cover maternity leave with a provisional start date of end May 2008.
